PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 21.—In the most fiercely contested judicial election in the history of Illinois, Charles C. Craig, Democrat, of Galesburg, was elected to the supreme bench to succeed Judge John P. Hand, by a majority of 3,640 over Judge Leslie D. Puterabugh, Republican, of Peoria. Arthur H. Shay, the Progressive candidate from Streator, ran nearly 5,000 votes behind the Republican.

Political experts attribute the Democratic success to the interference of Progressive and women suffragist elements into the campaign. Up to ten days before the campaign closed there was little interest taken in the struggle. Then the district was rushed by leading Progressive and leading woman suffrage speakers from Chicago.

It was apparent before 8 o'clock that Mr. Craig would carry the district and before 10 o'clock figures from the entire district had been assembled.

Craig's Majority 3,640.

With but three of 79 precincts in Peoria county missing and the other nine counties complete the figures are as follows:

Puterbaugh, 14,056.
Craig, 17,696.
Shay, 9,128.

Craig's majority 3,640 over Puterbaugh.

The vote in the last judicial election was about twenty per cent of normal, while yesterday's totals indicate that nearly half of the voters of the district went to the polls. Judge Puterbaugh carried his own county (Peoria) by 1,321 majority while Judge A. M. Otman, Republican, running for circuit judge, lost the county to John M. Niehaus by 1999 votes.

John A. Clinch of Elmwood, running as a Republican for probate judge, carried the county by 817 over John B. King, Democrat, and W. L. Elwood, Progressive.

Wilson Carried Three Counties.

At the presidential election last fall President Wilson carried three of the ten counties in the fifth judicial district by the following pluralities:

Marshall, 505.
LaSalle, 118.
Woodford, 556.

Colonel Roosevelt's pluralities in the seven other counties were:

Knox, 2,628.
Henry, 2,284.
Stark, 384.
Peoria, 865.
Putnam, 159.
Bureau, 938.
Grundy, 539.

President Taft did not carry a county in the district.

The candidates for member of the supreme court from the fifth district voted for today were:

Leslie D. Puterbaugh, Republican.
Charles G. Craig, Democrat.
A. H. Shay, Progressive.

Craig, the Democratic candidate, today carried the three counties that gave President Wilson pluralities a year ago. In addition he carried three counties—Knox, Putnam and Bureau—that gave Roosevelt pluralities. The Republican today carried three of the Roosevelt counties—Stark, Peoria and Grundy—and Progressives one—Henry.

This shows a gain of three counties for the Democrats, three for the Republicans and a loss of six by the Progressives.

Dunne Sends Congratulations.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 20.—Expressing pleasure at the news from the fifth judicial district to the effect that Hon. Charles C. Craig of Galesburg, Democrat, had been elected to the supreme bench to succeed former Justice John P. Hand of Cambridge, Governor Dunne tonight sent the following message to Judge Craig:

"Hearty congratulations. You deserve the victory. Sorry to lose you on my staff but pleased to have you on the supreme bench."

MRS. PANKHURST LANDS ON MANHATTAN ISLAND

IS RELEASED FROM DETENTION ON HER OWN RECOGNIZANCE

President Wilson and Secretary of Labor Intervene on Her Appeal—Is Dined at Aldine Club by Woman's Political Union.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English militant suffragette leader, landed on Manhattan island, from Ellis Island where she had been detained since last Saturday by the immigration officers. She had been ordered deported as an undesirable alien, but President Wilson and Secretary of Labor Wilson intervened on her appeal from this decision and today instructed Anthony Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration to release her on her own recognizance and without bond. She expects to sail for Europe November 28th.

It was difficult to imagine that the slightly built, gray haired little woman who stepped ashore from the ferry boat at the battery was the same person that for several years had caused the British government so much trouble by reason of her militant tactics in behalf of woman suffrage or her incitations to militancy for the "cause."

Also her tranquil countenance and brightness of eye gave no indication that she had gone through the ordeals of six prolonged hunger strikes to obtain her release from prison sentences imposed for illegal acts committed in England in her endeavors to gain votes for women.

Dines at the Aldine Club.

Shortly after she landed, Mrs. Pankhurst was taken in an automobile to the residence of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, where she had luncheon and tonight she was dined at the Aldine club by the Woman's Political Union.

She was highly elated over her release. "The American people did it—it is their will," she said. "What will the English say" Then she paid her respects tartly to Reginald McKenna, the British home secretary, characterizing him as "the chief torturer of England."

She said it was not her purpose to preach militancy in this country, but that she would confine herself to an exposition of the treatment accorded the suffragettes in England

Mrs. Pankhurst was the recipient of a demonstration unique in the annals of Ellis Island as she was leaving the immigration station. Men and women employes sought points of vantage from which they might see the militant leader and the board of special inquiry adjourned its cases that its members and the immigrants might see her as she walked toward the ferry boat and the freedom of the country.

Order Follows Hearing of Appeal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—America's doors were opened today to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, and during the few weeks covered by her lecture engagements, the British militant suffragist leader is free to go where she will in the United States. An order releasing the much-discussed visitor from detention at Ellis Island, New York, and revoking the deportation order of the special inquiry board was issued today after President Wilson had confererd with Secretary Wilson of the department of labor and a formal hearing before Immigration Commissioner Camminetti on Mrs. Pankhurst's appeal had been concluded.

Secretary Wilson announced that he and the president had agreed that Mrs Pankhurst should be admitted "on her own recognizance" with the understanding that she should depart when she had fulfilled her lecture engagements. Both the president and secretary agreed with Commissioner Caminetti in the opinion that there was an element of doubt as to whether the acts for which Mrs. Pankhurst had been convicted in England constituted moral turpitude or were political in character.

LIST OF DEAD SOLDIERS STANDS AT SEVENTEEN

NINETY ARE IN MOBILE HOSPITALS AS RESULT OF WRECK

Physicians Do Not Believe There Will Be More Than One Death Among the Injured—Met Death In Line Duty.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 20.—Unless others of the ninety soldiers in local hospitals die of injuries suffered in the wreck of the Mobile & Ohio troop train near State Line, Miss., Sunday afternoon the list of dead will stand seventeen, according to the railroad undertaker's report tonight. Officials of the railroad company say that there are no other bodies in the wreckage. Physicians do not believe there will be more than one death among the injured. The most seriously hurt is Private Ostrander of the 170th company.

The revised list of dead follows: Corporal Joseph Johnson, Eighth band; Private Virgil Remsen, 39th company and the following members of the 170 company: Corporal A. T. Klavinsky; Corporal Frank Chelwskie; Corporal Fritz Kohler and Privates Ernest Paquette, Joe Leben, W. H. Brin, G. C. Ruelke, E. W. Panek, Joseph Provance, H. Bishop, S. C. Burleson, Claude Teel, V. President W. W. Finley of the Mobile & Ohio believes the front wheels of the engine tender left the track before reaching the point where the accident occurred. His statement issued tonight says:

"These wheels broke practically every tie in the center of the trestle. When the ties were cut the track spread, resulting in the train toppling over and carrying the trestle with it. Careful examination does not indicate that the track was in anyway defective prior to the accident.

HOLD HARVEY SIX TO GRAND JURY ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Leader of Alleged Arson Gang of Illinois Was Arrested With Decatur Man on Charge of Plotting to Burn a Quincy Residence.

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 20.—Harvey A. Six, Springfield, known as the leader of the alleged arson gang of Illinois, was bound over to the Adams county grand jury today, charged with conspiracy to defraud three insurance companies out of $15,000. He was arrested two weeks ago with U. A. Brady, a well known Decatur real estate dealer, for plotting to burn a Quincy residence and secure the insurance.

Brady waived hearing at the time of his arrest. Six's bond was fixed at $3,000. Six was held today on the evidence of Charles Lloyd, a Springfield grocer, who said that he had consented to Six and Brady to set fire to the Quincy property. Before time for the firing of the property he went back on his promise and told the authorities of the plot. He also said that Brady and Six wanted to purchase his business in Springfield and set fire to it for the insurance.

Before the arrest of Six he was out on bond from the Joliet penitentiary where he had been sent to serve a three year term, pending an appeal to the supreme court. He had been sent to the penitentiary for burning the Aldine hotel in Peoria with S. A. Darr, formerly of Quincy. The property that was to have been burned in Quincy formerly belonged to Darr.

WILSON OPTIMISTIC REGARDING CURRENCY

Announces Willingness to Consider Proposal for a Recess of the House

WILL ACCEPT AMENDMENTS

Not to Oppose Reduction of Reserve Banks or Removal of Cabinet Member and Currency Comptroller from Board

MANN SAYS EXECUTIVE WAS MISLEAD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—With President Wilson willing to accept substantial amendments to the administratation currency bill in the hope of securing speedy action on the measure in the sentte committee, supporters of the administration today grew optimistic over the chances for the passage of the measure before the end of the extra session. The president himself in a letter to Majority Leader Underwood announced his willingness to consider a proposal for a recess of the house, because he said conferences with members of the senate committee had led him to believe the bill would be reported to the senate the first week in November and passed during the present session.

Think Plan Too Optimistic.

Republican members of the committee and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska were inclinedto look upon this plan as too optimistic but other members of the committee said they hoped to be able to live up to the president's expectations.

A reduction in the number of reserve banks, fixed by the administration bill at 12 and the removal of the secretary of agriculture and comptroller of the currency from the federal reserve board which would control the new currency system, were the amendments which president let it be known he would not oppose. Witnesses before the senate committee have almost unanimously contended for these amendments and a majority of the committee is believed to favor them.

Would Retain Reserve Board

The proposed amendments would retain the federal reserve board as a strictly governmental institution but would provide that it would be composed of seven members, six to be appointed by the president and to devote their entire time to the work of the board and the seventh to be the secretary of thetreasury. The committee has not yet taken up the question of reducing the number of reserve banks but suggestions have been made putting the number all the way from three to ten. Senator Weeks (Republican) has a proposal that the number be reduced to one, a single federal bank to be controlled absolutely by the government. The proposal for a recess of the house was taken up at the white house and at the capitol today and negotiations continued without any definite conclusion.

Mr. Underwood urged Representative Mann, the minority leader of the house to consent to the passage of a joint resolution for a recess of the house until Nov. 15th.

Mr. Mann, who has insisted that congress should adjourn because of his belief that the currency bill could not be enacted at the extra session, postponed decision on the request until tomorrow. Then he went to the senate and discussed with Republican and Democratic members, the president's assertion that the currency ill probably would be disposed of in November.

Mann Issues tSatement.

"I found", Mr. Mann said later, "that the senate was without a quorum, as is the house. I found that the president had not consulted with Republian senators nor received assurances from them that the currency bill would speedily be disposed of. I found that the president must have been mistaken or else was very much mislead.

"I found that in all probability the currency bill will not get into the senate until the next session of congress and that the president would be lucky is passes by February. The president says there is an ambitious legislative program for next winter. Unless congress begins work on the program now, we will be here until next September and unless there are concessions on the currency bill there may not be much legislation enacted but currency at the next session."

President Wilson's confidence that Republican and Democratic senators would reach an early agreement on the currency bill, which he expressed freely at the white house today was based on talks with Senator Nelson and one or two other Republicans. Members of the senate banking and currency committee expressed more confidence over an early outcome of the legislation than did Representative Mann but none of the Republican members would predict the passage of the bill within the time set by the president.

Representative Mann had not decided tonight whether he would agree tomorrow to the passage of a joint resolution, permitting a recess of the house. As a quorum of the house is not in town the Democratic leaders cannot act without the consent of the Republicans.

Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department and Chairman of the Senate banking and currency committee, conferred at length tonight with President Wilson concerning possible amendments to the house bill. Senator Owen pointed out the various amendments which Republican as well as Democratic members of the committee are expecting to offer.

MAKES FORMAL INQUIRY REGARDING SUPPOSED UNSYMPATHETIC ACTION OF SIR LIONEL CARDEN

Washington, Oct. 20.—While there was no change in either the status of affairs at Mexico City or the American policy, an international phase of the Mexican situation that attracted wide attention tonight was the formal inquiry made earlier today by Ambassador Page at London regarding what was construed here as an unsympathic atitude toward the United States by Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister to Mexico.

It is understood that the basis of the inquiry was a confidential report to the state department the contents of which were not divulged here. It is known, however, that what particularly displeased both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan was the presentation by Sir Lionel of his credentials to provisional President Huerta the very day after the latter had proclaimed hemself dictator. The American government felt that Huerta's nullification of the Mexican constitution not only by his arrest of the deputies but by his assumption of legislative powers had so altered affairs in the Mexican capital that the British minister might well have withheld his presentation of credentials.

Inquiry was directed to determine whether the British foreign office had instructed Sir Lionel to present his credentials notwithstanding Huerta's assumption of powers.

The explanation of the British foreign office noted in press dispatches that the presentation of the credentials was merely a coincidence and not antagonistic to the American point was not commented upon by officials tonight.

Diplomatic circles iterpreted the new development as strongly intimating to Europe the desires of the United States to have a free hand in dealing with the Mexican problem.

Impeached Executive Decides to Accept and Become a Candidate

ISSUES STATEMENT

Sulzer Tells Why He "Consented to Come Back to Albanys;" Promises to Make "Fur Fly"

WILL BE NON-PARTISAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—William Sulzer impeached as governor of the state was nominated for the assembly tonight by the Progressives of the sixth assembly district. Mr. Sulzer in 1889 began his public career as a member of this branch of the state legislature.

Mr. Sulzer has agreed to accept the nomination it was announced at the meeting where he was chosen as the candidate. Max Steindler, Progressive leader in the sixth assembly district who placed the for governor's name in nomination said Mr. Sulzer reached him by telephone from Albany, inquiring if he had been designated. Mr. Steindler replied in the affirmative. He said he asked Mr. Sulzer if he would accept and Mr. Sulzer replied he would glady do so.

Sulzer Issues Statement.

Albany, Oct. 20.—A few minutes after the Progressive convention met in New York tonightthat nominated him for assembly, William Sulzer issued a statement, telling why he had "consented to come back to Albany." He is confident the first of January will see him back where he began his political career twenty years ago. He and his friends are convinced that he will go from there to the speakership and thence back to the governor's chair.

Some time tomorrow Sulzer will go to New York. He will begin his campaign for the assembly immediately and speak day and night up to the election time. In the legislature he says he will start his fight which he hopes will put his back in the executive chair. His promise is to make the "fur fly" if he is made an assemblyman.

"I shall be a non-partisan candidate," Sulzer says, "having no axe to grind and no motive or purpose, other than to do what I can for the cause of good government—the struggle for which accomplishment brought about my removal from the governorship by an arrogant boss whose dictates to do wrong I defied."

Consults Score of Advisers.

Sulzer agreed to run after consulting with a score of political advisers today. The rabbis of every synagogue in the sixth district called at the executive mansion today to urge Sulzer to make the race. They brought petitions signed by 2,000 voters in the district asking Sulzer to run. There are said to be only 5,700 voters in the entire district. Mrs. Sulzer urged him to accept the nomination. The nomination of the impeached executive was brought about against the desires of the state and county leaders of the Progressive party. The sentiment among the Progressives through out the state fair in other states was generally against the movement according to state chairman. Thedore Douglass Robinson and county chairman Charles W. Bird. Mr. Bird, in a letter to Mr. Steindler before the meeting began cautioned him regarding "the unwisdom of nominataing Mr. Sulzer."

After Mr. Sulzer had been nominated tonight there was a demonstration in the east side meeting hall. Bands in the street outside played natoional airs. The nomination was made unanimous.

WHAT OTHER PREACHERS SAY

Since the beginning of the campaign in this city many people have been surprised that a Christian minister would devote any of his time and influence for the return to license. In the Sunday Journal there was an article compiled by the writer; quoting Rev. Washington Gladden of Cleveland, Ohio. The late Bishop Potter of New York went even farther. There are some churches that have not been scared into the Anti-Saloon movement, and for the benefit of those people who are anxious to know the truth we give two more quotations from prominent ministers, one of them a Bishop:

Bishop Burgess' Views.

As it has been charged by the Anti-Saloon League that Bishop Frederick Burgess, of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, is out of sympathy with Dr. Wasson's views we give the following declaration by the Bishop, made at the Diocesan Convention held at Garden City, Long Island, on May 17:

"I have not time," said Bishop Burgess, "in which to treat this subject of temperance exhaustively, and I intend only to express what I think should be the attitude of Christian people toward the two questions which have been most prominently before the people of the State of New York during the past year—the Sunday opening question and the question of local option.

"The local option question is, in my opinion, a mistake. There should be one temperance law for the whole state, with perhaps exceptions made for the great cities. The introduction of one of the most contentious subjects into local politics in mischievous in the extreme. It arouses wranglings and leads oftentimes to hard feelings which would have been avoided had the outlook been wider.

"Nor does such a system do any general good. If one town prohibits, it usually results in the neighboring towns becoming more lax and indifferent. In the efforts of prohibitionists were directed toward limiting the number of saloons strictly to the size of the poulation, making the number allowed to each territory as small as possible. It would result in untold good to the community.

Rev. William A. Wasson.

Some years ago the Rev. William A. Wasson, Rector of Grace Episcopal Church, of Riverhead, Long Island, became convinced that the Anti-Saloon League movement was impracticable so far as the matter of temperance was concerned, but that it constituted an attack on the integrity of the Bible and upon the character and example of Christ.

Dr. Wasson is a brave man, and he did not hesitate to take the stand in opposition to this movement, and in consequence he brought down upon his head the denunciation of political preachers throughout the country, and petitions were sent to the Bishop of Long Island protesting against Dr. Wasson's stand, and insisting that he should be asked to resign his pastorate. The Bishop, however, sustained Dr. Wasson, and Dr. Wasson continued his fight in a valiant way, and he has now decided that it is his duty to devote himself entirely to the defense of personal liberty, and the truth of the Scriptures, and the character of Christ as outlined in the Scriptures. Dr. Wasson has, therefore, sent in his resignation to the Bishop, and in doing so has the following to say:

"This is a step that I have had under serious consideration for some months. It does not mean that I have less regard for the Church or her work, or less appreciation of my duty and privilege as her minister. On the contrary, it is these very considerations that are determining my course—that I may serve the Church more effectually. I see an ampler opportunity than a local pastorate can afford of preaching the Gospel as this Church hath received the same; and I feel that I am 'thereunto called.'

"The supreme immorality that confronts and threatens the Christian church in this country is that which masks and misrepresents itself under the guise of that noble word—temperance. The prohibition movement is more dangerous than commercialism, for the latter, at least, makes no pretenses. If it demoralizes, it does not deceive.

"The poisonous influence of this humbug 'temperance' is more disastrous than that of drunkenness, for the latter is seen and loathed for what it is, whereas the prohibition propaganda parades in the livery of heaven.

"This spurious 'temperance' slurs, not always covertly, our Lord Jesus Christ, because, in His own words, He came 'drinking.' A copy of the Prohibitionist, the official organ of the National Prohibition party, is before me, containing an editorial in this very strain, the gist of which is that if Jesus did drink wine, He was ignorant of the fact that He was setting a bad example to all future ages! Jesus Christ must sit at the feet of these blasphemers to take lessons in good morals! And these modern scribes and pharisees have the brazen nerve to call themselves Christians! Call the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more then of his household.

"This perfidious crusade denies and, where it can, tears away and destroys the lawful liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free. Our own branch of the one universal church, in agreement with all the other ancient divisions of the same, expressly and formally places the wine cup in the hands of every communicating member and commands, 'Drink this.' Indeed, it looks on this sacrament as at once the consummation and the well-spring of the Christian's spiritual life. Our church, in so many words, in the Catechism teaches that wine (and by analogy other alcoholic beverages that may be no more dangerous than wine) has an even stronger claim than that of legitimate indulgence. It teaches that wine is a food—'Our bodies are strengthened and refreshed by the bread and wine.' How far, or whether at all, the individual members of the church shall commonly use these beverages, the church leaves to the conscience and the good sense of the member.

"The moral influence of this tyrannical, unscriptural and unchristian prohibition propaganda is wholly and many sidedly bad. While the masses of its adherents are no doubt sincere and honest, its protagonists, as a class, assault all who differ from them with savage and venomous ferocity. They admit no difference in judgment. Even to question their wisdom argues moral depravity. In addition, they slander and falsify. They browbeat. They set wicked traps to entice to sin. Where they prevail there begins an orgy of hypocrisy and law breaking; and the last state of the community is worse than the first.

"I believe there is a great and urgent work of the church and her Master to be done in exposing and combating this threatening reign of terror. In this work I propose to do my little share by giving up my whole time to it. I shall oppose that menace to true religion with voice and pen.

"With my brother I am now collaborating on a book aiming at once to expose the real character of this miscalled temperance movement, and to show how intemperance can be met and overcome, here a little and there a little, by methods that approve themselves to the reason and invade no inherent rights. I am writing for the periodical press as well. And I am prepared to speak wherever men will listen to the voice of the church and the message of the everlasting Gospel that has been instructed to her care.

"Henceforth I shall give my time and thought to fighting temperance falsely so called and advocating the true temperance, which means moderation and self-control."—By Rev. W. A. Gardner.

BROWN'S COLLEGE GRADUATES MANY EXERCISES HELD IN AUDITORIUM OF INSTITUTION.

Supt. H. E. Read Heard in Splendid Address and Diplomas Were Delivered by Supt. R. H. Peck—List of Graduates.

The large auditorium of Brown's Business college was completely filled Monday evening with an audience gathered to enjoy the annual graduating exercises of the institution. The apartment was finely decorated with a large national flag, ornamental streamers and unique lights arranged about the stage in Hallowe'en pumpkins while a number of the globes on the chandeliers were similarly adorned, making a novel and rather pleasing effect. The music of evening was furnished by the Wood Wind choir, a detachment of the Jeffries orchestra, and was excellent. The airs from the Bohemian Girl brought up many vivid recollections most pleasing, also solo by Percy Jenkinson.

Supt. H. E. Read Speaks.

Prof. Springgate presided and after music by the choir introduced the first speaker, Supt. H. E. Read. Of the gentleman's excellent remarks only a few points are given:

"We recognize this large audience here tonight as friends of the students of the college, young people who have completed the prescribed course and are now ready to enter the competition of the world in the active duties of life. Our ideas in life are different and we are prone to arrange ourselves in groups accordingly. There are those whose leading thought is religion; others whose thought is fashion; others who think most of intellect and others again of money and the acts of each are governed accordingly.

"We say plainly, the business college appeals to those who seek success in life and desire to make money. Not that it is sordid or base but its avowed object is to prepare its students more successfully to fight the battles of life. It teaches its students to labor and profit in proportion to the brains he possesses. But that is not all. The business college teaches how to make the most of life. It does not merely seek to turn out students who will be money machines but who will also have higher aims and purposes in life. We hope that all who go from this place with the diplomas of the college will first get good positions and then rise higher and be able to have a business of their own and give positions to other young students. It is the desire to implant in the minds of the students worthy aspirations and an ambition to be something more than mere machines; men and women worthy of a higher place in the business and social world gained because of their study here."

Principal Springgate said that 250 enrolled last year and of that number forty-one were stayers and completed the course. He hoped they would do more than use mechanically what they had gained and would try to have a high aim in life and become proprietors of businesses themselves. The class proposed three cheers for Springgate which were given with a will.

Diplomas Delivered.

Supt. Peck delivered the diplomas with many pleasant remarks. He emphasized the fact that the diploma was to be but a stepping stone in life to something better. The student might begin at $2.50 a week but he should strive to do so well that he would soon command more. In each position he should learn all possible of his employer and use it for his own betterment honorably in all things. A diploma alone is not a guarantee of success but must be used in connection with the brains and energy of the holder if it is to be of any advantage. A diploma is much like a marriage certificate; it does not insure happiness for that depends on the individual.

After the awarding of the diplomas came the typewriting demonstration by Richard Schlieber, who handled the machine admirably, easily writing 127 words a minute with but three mistakes. The entire program was carried out as anticipated with the exception of the stenotype demonstration, which was omitted. All present were greatly pleased and the exercises showed that the Business college is an important factor in the city of Jacksonville.

The organization is as follows:

Class officers—President, Dean W. Geer; vice-president, Arthur F. Gieseking; secretary-treasurer, Nelle Ritscher.

JUNIORS OBTAIN MOST SUBSCRIBERS.

High School Nautilus Will Be Issued in a Short Time.

Another business meeting of the High School Students' association was held Monday afternoon, at which time it was announced that the juniors had won the prize offered for obtaining the largest number of subscribers to the Nautilus, the figures being as follows:

Juniors	101
Seniors	82
Sophomores	40
Freshmen	47
Eighth grade	25
Total	295

The contest evoked no little interest among the classes and the result has given the school publication one of the largest, if not the largest circulation in its history. Aside from the subscriptions, the business managers have secured $300 worth of advertising. It is worthy of mention that each member of the Senior class subscribed for the Nautilus this year and it is expected that several more names will be added to make the total over 300. The first issue of the paper will be out in a week.

At a recent meeting of the association it was voted to change the constitution so as to include two musical directors and Frank Gruenewald, who recently presided as first vice president, was appointed to one of the positions. Mr. Gruenewald's former place was filled by Miss Dorothy Rogerson.

High Class Character of Neal Drink and Drug Cure

Gradually but surely the people of the world are finding out about the great international work—the grand results that have been accomplished by the Neal Three Day Treatment for Drink and Drug addictions—and that all of the sixty splendid Neal Institutes located in principal cities are high class institutions owned, operated and patronized by high class men.

Like the Chicago Neal Institute—a hundred thousand dollar building owned by the Neal Company and located in the beautiful Drexel Boulevard residential district, and the Springfield, Ill., Neal Institutte, located in the fine old "Leland Home" adjoining the Country Club—all the sixty Neal Institutes are located in the high class residence sections of the different cities.

Names of patients are never used, but if any one will take the time to call at any Neal Institute or write for literature they will be satisfied by their "own eyes and ears" that the Neal Treatment has PREVENTED thousands of high class men from becoming drunkards and that it has rescued thousands of others from the "Drunkard's pilgrimage of woe."

Because of the short time required, the modern scientific methods, the harmless medicines that are used without hypodermic injections and the privacy that is assured, high class men and women who investigate gladly seek and secure the benefits of the Neal Treatment at some Neal Institute or arrange for treatment in their own homes.

For full information call, write or wire the head NEAL INSTITUTE No. 811 East 49th street, Chicago, phone Oakland 439, or at SPRINGFIELD, ILL., near Country Club, phone Main 6858.

TEMPERANCE GROWING.

From Wallace's Farmer: One of the most significant happenings of recent years is the announcement by Emperor William, of Germany, that he proposes to join the temperance ranks. It is known that he has been greatly impressed with the statistical studies of the evil effects of alcohol on mental and physical efficiency, and evidently the time has arrived when he proposes to give the weight of his influence to the side of temperance. When swearing in a corps of naval recruits recently, he gave a vigorous lecture on this subject, and has also advised army officers that he will be well pleased if toasts to his health are drunk in water. There are probably few men in the entire world who can exercise a greater influence for temperance than Emperor William, the head of the nation which is so well known for its drinking.

CIRCULATE PETITION ASKING LORIMER TO RUN FOR SENATOR

Paper Is Mailed to Chicago by Republican Club of Galesburg--Lorimer Refuses to Comment.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—A petition to former United States Senator William Lorimer asking him to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator next spring was circulated here today. The petition was mailed to Chicago by the Republican club of Galesburg, Ill., of which Oscar Thorelius is president. The place for which Lorimer was asked to run is the senatorship to be vacated at the expiration of the term of Senator Sherman, who was elected to fill the vacancy caused when the senate held that Larimer had not been properly elected to his seat.

Lorimer refused to comment on the petition and has not said whether he would be a candidate.

BEGIN TO INSTALL ELECTRIC CHAIR

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 20.—Experts today began the construction of electrical apparatus which will be used for future executions at the state prison here.

Two prisoners await electrocution next January. John Chirda of Indiana Harbor, one of the condemned men, is extremely cheerful and believes he was right in killing his wife for unfaithfulness, even marking passages in the bible to support his claim. Harry Rasico of Vincennes, the other man awaiting death, is sullen and will talk to no one.

CONFESSES TO MURDER.

Harper, Kan., Oct. 20.—Eli Girard, a farmhand, 24 years old, confessed today, according to Donald Muir, county attorney, that his brother, Peter Girard, Frank J. Marion and himself murdered Charles Johnston, a wealthyrecluse with a corn knife in 1909 for the purpose of robbery. They secured no money, according to Girard, who had previously served a term in the Kansas Reformatory for robbing Johnston of $1,600. The Girards are under arrest here and an officer today went to Macomb, Ill., to get Marion who is detained there.

During a serch of the Johnston house after the crime officers found $3,000 buried in jugs, cans and bottles. The murderers had overlooked it.

FANS GREET LESLIE BUSH.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 20.—Several thousand enthusiastic "fans" greeted Leslie Bush of the Philadelphia Athletics upon his arrival home today. As he stepped from the train the bands struck up "See the Conquering Hero Comes," and Bush was seized and tossed aloft by fifty hands. Every whistle in town screamed a welcome and several factories and business houses closed to permit employes to attend the celebration which included an automobile parade. The home-coming festivities were concluded with a dance tonight.

JOHN S. LEECH RESIGNS.

Manila, Oct. 20.—John S. Leech, director of printing for the Philippine Islands, has resigned. In a statement he says that his resignation was requested after he had refused to divulge cablegrams of protest sent to Washington by members of the Manila Typhographical union against a prospective salary cut by the legislature. Mr. Leech adds that he felt it his duty to remain loyal to the men's organization of which he is an honorary member, moreover he maintains he must recognize the men's right of petition.

FINED FOR BREAKING RADIO ACT.

New York, Oct. 20.—Elmer B. Meyers, a Brooklyn youth who set up a wireless plant on the roof of home before securing a federal license to do so, was today fined $50 by Judge Mayer today for violation of the raido act passed last June by congress. He is said to be the first defendant under this law, his machine, according to the government, was tuned with the big government station on the Atlantic coast.

The law forbids unlicensed operators picking up messages sent ashore from ships.

MAY NOT FACE TRIAL.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—William C. Ellis, the Cincinnati manufacturer who killed his wife and attempted suicide here last Thursday may never be tried for the murder he has confessed. His attorney says he has found two witnesses who wil ltestify that Ellis was not under oath when he confessed to the coroner's jury. Counsel contends that an indictment based upon the evidence at hand would not be legal.

WELCH IS GIVEN DECISION OVER SAYLOR ON A FOUL

Brittisher is Knocked Out in Ninth Round by Stiff Blow Which Landed in the Groin.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 20.—Freddie Welsh, the English light-weight championship claimant, was knocked out in the ninth round of his scheduled twelve round bout with Young Saylor of Indianapolis here tonight. The referee claimed the knockout was due to a foul blow.

The blow, which was a stiff one and which landed in the groin, sent the English fighter to the floor for the count Welsh was given the decision by the referee on a foul.

Saylor was warned at the opening of the ninth round against hitting low but continued his tactics and finally sent the Britisher to the floor by a stiff blow, which landed in the groin.

Up to the ninth round Welsh outboxed his opponent and his clever ring generalship kept the Indianapolis boy guessing. The latter, however, showed flashes of clever work but blows that might have caused damage usually went wide of their mark. Welsh brought blood to the nose and mouth of his opponent during the early rounds and at times appeared to strike him almost at will.

When the ninth round was reached the two fighters mixed it. Suddenly Wealsh groaned and sank to the floor from a blow which looked low from the ringside. After a heated discussion in which both sides claimed the match the referee stated that the blow was foul and gave Welsh the decision. The club doctor after examining Welsh claimed that the fighter had been hit in the groin.

STATES LAWS NEED REVISION.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—"The crying need ofthe mining industry is a complete revision of the mining laws" declared David E. Brunton of Denver, president of the American Mining Congress in his annual address here tonight. He referred to the so-called "apes" law as the most achaic that was ever placed upon the statute books. He inveighed against the recently passed laws in many western states which he declared placed new burdens upon mining property but pleaded for the extension of workmen's compensation acts to all states.

FILE FORMAL CHARGES.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—Lawrence Duke, son of Brodie Duke, the tobacco manufacturer, was formally charged with manslaughter today in an information filed by the prosecuting attorney. An automobile driven by Duke killed Henry N. Farr and Thomas G. Simmons last week.

It is alleged in the information that Duke was "drunk and unfit to drive and operate the automobile."

Duke will be arraigned Wednesday.

KILLS WIFE AND SUICIDES.

Trenton, Mo., Oct. 20.—William Payne, aged 50, a farmer living 10 miles south of Trenton, killed his wife, Anna, today, shooting her in the face and cutting her throat and then committed suicide. A little daughter witnessed the shooting of her mother and ran screaming to a neighbor's house. When neighbors arrived both Payne and his wife were dead. They had been separated and Mrs. Payne had refused to return to her husband. They leave five children.

CAPTAIN CLARK DIES

The Water Vine.

Containing a quart of clear, pure water to every foot, the water vine, a black, snake-like, leafless stem, dropping from the ceiba and mahogany trees to which it has clinged, is one of the wonders of the Guatemala jungle. When the stem is cut the water spurts forth in a refreshing stream. Moisture is drawn up from the soil and filtered through the pores of the plant.

Must Be High Class.

"You have a beautiful manor house, but you ought to have a little village for the peasantry as we do in England. It adds to the landscape."

"All right," said the multimillionaire, "but it must be a restricted affair. No peasant admitted earning less than $5,000 a year."—Kansas City Journal.

His Misfortune.

"You have no one to blame but yourself for your unlucky business ventures," said the stern parent. "I advised you to look before you leaped."

"I did look, dad," explained the repentant son, "and I didn't leap. I got dizzy and fell."—Buffalo Express.

An Awful Threat.

Father—You have no sense. I'm going to cut you off with a million. The Son—If you do I'll disgrace the family by riding around in a second hand auto.—New York Globe.

A Starter.

Jack Makeit—How can we marry? I'm only worth $15,000, and that wouldn't buy your clothes. May Spendit—Oh, yes, it would, Jack, for nearly five years!—Puck

LETTER REVEALS NEW AND DEADLY METHOD OF EXTORTION

Sender Writes That Letter Was Filled With Germs From Which the Handler Could Not Avoid Contracting a Deadly Disease.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—A letter, the contents of which may reveal a new and deadly method of extortion, or may prove only a hoax, was investigated today by the postal inspectors and the police. The epistle was received at the home of Frederick M. Steele, a millionaire manufacturer in Highland park. The letter, the sender wrote, was filled with deadly germs from which the handler could not avoid contracting a deadly disease, for which only the sender knew the cure.

"It is already too late for you to escape inoculation," the letter continued. Mr. Steele said the writer said that $1,500 be placed at the foot of Logan monument in Grant park and that the cure would be mailed. A physician will make daily examination of Mr. Steele for several days.

MAY NOT RE-EMPLOY STRIKERS.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 20.—The influx of workmen into the copper strike district brought here by the mining companies today made practically certain that a large number of the strikers would not be given their old places, even thought the strike is brought to an end by either side. It is said the attitude of the mining companies is not to re-employ the miners who have been active in the conduct of the strike or those who have resorted to violence. Many men arrive daily for the Calumet and Hecla and other mines.

A stable at Centennial Heights, used by mine guards employed by the Centennial Mining company, burned tonight and the authorities believe the blaze was of incendiary origin.

MUST REFUND LARGE SUM

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—In accordance with a decision of the circuit court here today the city of St. Louis will have to refund to local $10,738.92, representing illegally collected taxes. The corporations questioned a city ordinance of 1909, levying a tax of $1 for each $1,000 worth of merchandise owned by them but not in St. Louis. The court awarded $2,763.88 to the American Manufacturing company and $7,976.04 to the Simmons Hardware company.

STATE MAY SEIZE AND OPERATE COAL MINES.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 20.—Petitions designed to determine whether public sentiment would support a proposal for the state to seize and operate the coal mines pending the settlement of the present strike were put in circulation today. The petitions are being circulated by the United Mine Workers of America, the state federation of labor and other labor organizations according to officers in charge of the miners union headquarters here.

AMERICAN MINING CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—The metal mining interests of the west as well as the coal mining industry in the east are fully represented at the sixteenth annual meeting of the American Mining congress, which convened in this city today for a session that will last through the greater part of the week. Delegates representing the mining industry in Alaska, in British Columbia and eastern Canada and in various sections of Mexico are also in attendance. A wide variety of problems relating to mining will be discussed, but the subject that has been given first place on the program is the devising of measures to better safeguard the lives of the men who work underground. As a means to this end the congress has installed in Horticultural hall an elaborate display of safety appliances and rescue and first aid apparatus. The United States bureau of mines is represented by one of its safety cars and a picked crew of helmet men, while a number of coal companies that have developed the "safety first" movement at their mines have sent rescue and first aid crews to explain their work to the convention.

FORMER PRISONERS OF WAR WILL MEET IN URBANA THURSDAY

Capt. J. M. Swales To Be One of the Speakers.

The twenty-fourth annual reunion of the Illinois Ex-Prisoners of War association will be held at Urbana commencing on Thursday next and continuing through Friday. The college town is preparing upon a large scale and will be dressed up in its best Sunday togs in honor of these heroes of the war of the rebellion. President A. T Ives of Bloomington, who has been at the head of the organization for several years, has prepared an elaborate program. The principal speaker will be John McElroy of Washington, D. C. Mr. McElroy was a prisoner at Andersonville, and it is expected his experiences will furnish a remarkable recital.

Capt. J. M. Swales, of this city, who for many years was custodian of Memorial hall, Springfield, is on the program for a talk, and all who know the captain are certain he will acquit himself with credit. He also was a prisoner at Andersonville. Other speakers include Rev. H. B. Douglas of Centralia, who is and has been chaplain of the association for many years; Dr. Jehu Little of Bloomington, the founder of the organization and its secretary for a quarter of a century; Rev. J. H. Milholland of Charleston, W. H. Watson of Chebanse, and others.

Illinoisans delight in honoring these veterans who survived the southern persons and the competition among the different cities each year is keen to secure these annual conclaves to talk over the days of the great conflict of the sixties. Bloomington and Decatur will send strong delegations in the hope of securing next year's convention.

A GREATER JACKSONVILLE.

By Hattie B. Daniel.

Don't you know that it isn't rum that you want, to make Jacksonville grow, but it is water. Water, and plenty of it.

Where is there a man who would invest money for a large manufacturing business with such an uncertain water supply? Where is there a city with better business facilities than Jacksonville, if there was plenty of water? Use your "vote buying" money and get water. Water is your greatest need. Anybody that has brain enough to make money knows that every saloon that Jacksonville has will take money from the merchant, the milliner, the press—in fact, from every branch of industry, except the saloon; and is it expedient to bring something for the support of possibly a hundred and fifty people, and by so doing, take away the support of several thousand people?

The man who would keep a saloon and his bartender can find a means of support in almost any line of manual labor, if it be only a hod carrier, but the poor drunkard loses his ability to labor, robs his wife and family of health and all go down to dire want, or you must support them you say, "they drink it any way?" It is false. True, some do, but if you know that whiskey is sold in Jacksonville you are a traitor to all christian citizenship if you do not use every means to enforce the law. Whose business is it to see that laws are enforced? All citizens. Are you an American citizen, with the privilege of freedom, franchise, faithfulness, or are you simply a "What is it?"

Through long ages women have been classed with idiots, criminals, paupers and insane, though it wasn't desirable company, at least we had the satisfaction of being "classed" and the wishy-washy man who sits on the fence and kicks every good solid plank and spits on every clean ordinance is worse than nothing.

It is not the saloon man whom we have to fear, nor the man who drinks. Thank God, they are in the minority, but it is the man who is afraid of his business, the man who stays at home, and the man who sells his vote. And now that the franchise is given to women, it is not the fallen women that we have to fear, but it is the indifferent, the nicy-nice, and the woman who doesn't dare.

If politics are corrupt it is time we were purifying them. If the quiet gray-haired mothers will become contaminated by going to the polls, God pity our sons and husbands.

You haven't time? Do you know dear sisters that by refusing to give at the very most an hour of your time once a year, you are compelling dozens of other women to spend days over the washtub? Women who love their home and babies better than you do yours for they are willing to give their life for their children's pro tection and you are not willing to give an hour.

Then, too, they may be just as refined in taste, just as dear lovers of home, and comfort as you. Really, I think it should be a law to compel every man and woman over 21 to vote or pay a ten dollar fine That might fill up your treasury. If it did not, at least, it would insure better government, for if the really moral minded people were compelled to vote there would be few men in office, who would not enforce the law.

You say that a woman's place is at home. True, all womanly women, by instinct, want a home and the sacred ties of a home, but while we are enjoying our home, there are over a hundred thousand women who toil in poverty and ruin and woe, not from choice, but because of rum, and because the man who promised to love and protect them has lost all sense of honor or decency.

Are you willing to let the rum fiend point to you and say "by your consent I have the privilege of bringing ruin and poverty, crime and eternal death upon your neighbors, your children and your neighbors' children?

In the "good old days" there was a common interest and common aim that held the family together in a different way than at the present time. The father and sons tilled the soil, took the grain to mill or ground it themselves and killed their own meat; while the mother and daughters carded the wool, and cotton, spun, wove and sewed, knit and made their bonnets. There was nothing to take them into the outside world, except perchance to exchange produce for sugar and coffee, and I doubt not, but there are some who can remember the parched mollasses and corn meal that took the place of coffe in so many homes. Does the home mean the same today that it did then?

The modern home reaches out to all parts of the earth to supply its needs. Does the daughter of today find recreation and employment by her mother's side? Does the son work side by side with the father and retire at sunset? The home is wherever our loved ones are, and if they are scattered to the utmost parts of the earth, then the mother heart must needs reach out to hover over and protect them.

Don't let Satan delude you into thinking that it is unwomanly to vote. Your vote counts as much as does the brewer or the distiller, and you must offset the votes that they can buy or command. God will hold you guilty if you refuse to lend your aid in this great cause for God and home and native land. True, many of us did not choose this privilege, but it has changed from a privilege to a sacred duty. We cannot help it, if someone burned our house, but we do not need to give him the match with which to start the fire. There will be drinking and sin for years, until the making of whiskey is stopped, but we can protest against it and by our vote protect against it and if we do our part God will do the rest.

Did Isaiah look down through all these years and mean you when he said, "Rise up, ye women that are at ease; ye careless women and hear my voice. Upon the land of my people shall come up thorns and briars; yea, upon all the houses of joy in the joyous city?"

We have plenty of room for criticism, but it rests with the good women of Jacksonville whether right shall rule, or whether your beautiful city shall go back to the control of the saloon and the men who favor it. Shall this be true? "The Lord giveth the word, and the women that bring the glad tidings, are a great host."

SOME OFF-SIDE CHUTES.

When the White Sox-Giants combination hits Joplin, Mo., next Sunday the natives of the zinc region, if the weather man permits, will witness quite a nifty pitchers' duel. Walter Johnson, the Washington star, who is at his home in Coffeyville, Kas., hard by Joplin, has signed an agreement to hurl for the White Sox upon that occasion provided McGraw agrees to send Christy Mathewson onto the mound to oppose him. Mugsy is not overlooking anything that will bring the "shiners" into the box office, so it is a safe bet that Matty will be there and wearing bells and spangles.

Much stress was used in sending out a press dispatch from Portland, Ore., Saturday night telling of the detention of Patsy Cardiff, who was suffering from an attack of "jimjams." The stress in the story related to a little mix-up with the great John Laurence Sullivan in Minneapolis several years ago, in which the then handsome Patsy Cardiff was given a draw. But the Portland tenderfoot press reporter did not attempt to inform the followers of the pugilistic game of today, now Patsy escaped a first-class trimming to be allowed a draw. At that time John L. was touring the world and offering from $100 to $500 to all aspirants who would "stay" four rounds before his battering right. Cardiff accepted the $500 in the Minneapolis "go" and in the second round John L. broke several of the bones in his right forearm and was compelled to "stall" through until the finish, hence the so-called draw.

The good night bell was "rung in" last Saturday night when White Hope Al Palzer was stowed away in the second round of a scheduled six round affair at Pittsburgh by Dan Dailey, an ex-puddler of New Castle, Pa. Dailey is as yet a novice fresh from the rolling mills, and his easy win over the Iowa bus driver will at this late day convince Palzer's New York backers there are other requirements aside from bulk necessary to make a world's champion boxer. The most disappointed boxing fan in New York today is William B. (Bat) Masterson, famous in the border days of Dodge City, Kas., and later a terror to the "bad men" of Colorado. Bat up until two weeks ago had unbounded faith in Palzer. His defeat by Gunboat Smith in New York at that time Masterson regarded as a sort of fluke which he attributed to Palzer's health. After that match he advised the aspirant to go back to his Hawkeye home and rest up for a year at least before engaging in any more ring encounters. Saturday night's result should convince Palzer that nature never intended the heavyweight crown as an ornament for the Thayer, Iowa 'bus line.

Much has been said this season regarding the healthful changes made in the football rules. Some of the changes have been a great improvement; but in many of Saturday's games, six at least, all rules were tossed to the four winds, and instead of the tackle in those six games rough and tumble fights were frequent. Knock-down and drag-out fisticuffs were the principal features of two games, one in Kansas, the other in Nebraska, states in which a fight under London prize ring rules, is a felony. Football fights under free-for-all rules, however, is allowed to go unpunished. Intellectual savagery perhaps makes a difference with the sheriffs in those states.

The showing of the Badgers against Purdue on Saturday was not satisfactory to Coach Juneau, and when he starts practice today for the games with the Michigan Aggies next Saturday there will be several new faces in the line-up. All of his team "came through" in good shape with the exception of Left End Lange, who will be out of practice for several days.

Pat Ryan of the New York Irish-American Athletic club on Sunday shattered the world's record twelve-pound hammer throw when he hurled the "wedge" 213 feet, 9 inches. The old record was held by John Flannagan and was 207 feet, 7 3-4 inches, which has stood for three years.

Ad Wolgast will not meet Charley White as scheduled in Milwaukee on Friday night, much to the disgust of the little Chicago Ghetto boxer. Wolgast sends word from his camp that while in training his boxing partner sailed in too strong and cracked one of his right ribs. The Wisconsin Boxing Commission will investigate, and if Ad is attempting to ring in one of his well known "stalls" he will be forever shut out in the Wisconsin clubs.

A new "Kid Herman," hailing from Pekin, Ill., gave "Louisiana," a colored pugilist, a lacing in Philadelphia Saturday. Sheer gameness kept the colored boy from acquiring the haymaker. It is to be hoped this second "Kid Herman" will be able to continue the good record established by the original.

The White Sox-Giants barnstorming tour thus far is not drawing nearly as well as one of grandmother's old fashioned mustard plasters. At Cincinnati on Saturday 12,000 of the unterrified braved the elements and watched the slaughter of Jos Benz by the tribe McGraw, and on Sunday at Comiskey's park Chicago but 7,000 of the faithful turned out to see Tex Russel "blow up" in the 9th round. At Springfield yesterday business was not suspended to make a gala day for the tourists, and hardly enough money was checked through the turnstiles to pay the freight to Peoria, where the teams play today.

WILD WIND ANTICS

The Havoc That May Come When a Tornado Breaks Loose.

STORMS PLAY QUEER PRANKS

Houses Have Been Carried Bodily Into the Air and Exploded, and Half a Building Has Been Swept Away, While the Rest Remained Unharmed.

The weather bureau at Washington has been collecting statistics and facts about cyclones and tornadoes for many years, and the experts have succeeded in securing considerable valuable data about the big winds; but, after all, the freaks of the storm are the things that give it special interest, and if all these were properly classified some remarkable reading would be furnished. Every visitation of a tornado adds to this valuable storehouse of queer freaks.

It is not uncommon for the whirling wind to cut a house in half, demolishing one side and leaving the other undisturbed. This happened in an Iowa tornado, and the part that was left intact was so little disturbed that the clock on the mantel continued ticking, as if nothing had happened.

In the Texas town of Sherman, which was visited by a tornado in 1896, two houses were picked up and carried into the air, where they exploded. Every one in them was severely injured except a baby, which did not receive so much as a scratch. A man milking a cow in a shed saw the cow and shed carried up in the air, but he was not so much as touched. Not a drop of the milk in his pail was spilled or disturbed.

In the St. Louis tornado of the same year a carpet in the parlor of one house was pulled up by the twister and carried away a few hundred yards without so much as a rent being torn in it. The tacks had been pulled up as neatly as if extracted by a careful carpet layer.

In another house the bedclothing and mattress were lifted from the bed, and the bedstead was left intact. A resident was carried through the roof of another house with the bed and dropped a quarter of a mile away without injury. The mattress saved him in the fall, and he picked himself up in a vacant lot to dress without knowing exactly what had happened to him.

The "twisters" have been known to pull nails out of shingles and then go on to pick up a chimney bodily and carry it through the air. In Kansas one picked up a buggy and landed it in the branches of a tree. At another time it ripped the harness completely off a horse and left horse, buggy and man uninjured. In Louisville, in 1890, a tornado carried the roof off a house and pulled a child from the mother's arms and carried it safely to another house six blocks away.

But these are merely among the harmless freaks of the big wind. There are others more heartrending. It has dismembered human beings, tearing arms and legs from the body, and twisted the hair of women into ropes. In Kansas it drove a piece of scantling six inches square through the body of a hog. At another time it blew in the door of a farmer's house and carried the owner away on the door, to drop him in the branches of a tree. The tornado did not hurt him, but he broke his neck falling from the tree to the ground.

No one has succeeded in measuring the full force of a tornado, but it is known to travel at the rate of 200 miles and more an hour.

Tornadoes are exciting more general attention than formerly because of the greater number of towns and villages located in the tornado belt. Each successive one is more dangerous than its predecessors because it is apt to find more human material to destroy. Formerly it might travel half the length of a continent without finding anything in its path to destroy except grass, trees and ocasionally the crops of a solitary farmer. Today, if it followed the same route, it might pass over a dozen villages and towns.

The only thing that can possibly break the force of a tornado is a range of mountains. It may create wild havoc among the trees and bowlders of a mountain, but it cannot carry the mountain itself away. It will uproot giant forest trees, suck the water from wells and streams, twist and demolish iron bridges and carry up houses, but the mountains are proof against the mighty force of the wind.

Until we know how to control the tornado or find some means of baffling it, its menacing danger must always be a source of considerable uneasiness in the great plain sections of the country. But, like earthquakes, the tornado and cyclone do not come every year, and sometimes they defer their visit for a decade or so, for which we may be thankful.—George E. Walsh in Harper's Weekly.

THIS SPACE IS CONTROLLED BY THE PUBLICITY COMMITTEE OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

SALUTATORY

Again we greet the Jacksonville public, and again we regret the occasion which calls us forth. We had fondly dreamed that the odious saloon would never again seek admission to our beautiful city. The five years of cleaner and ever cleaner life had led us to hope that we were immune to any possible return of the dire malady. Five years of convalescence till attaining almost perfect civic health. This is not the assertion of an enthusiast, but the statement of a scientific demonstration. During the past months we have been visited and investigated, first by an anti-saloon detective, afterwards by a U. S. Government officer under the Mann Act, and together they unite in giving us the cleanest bill of health known to any city of like size in the whole United States. Mark well the items. Only four known booze joints and three "suspects." Only fourteen scarlet women who ply the trade. Not one permanently located gambling hell.

Such is Jacksonville today without the saloon. Of that yesterday with the saloon we blush to speak. Twenty-seven places where the laws of God and man were notoriously violated, not one even pretending to obey the ordinance. One of the more honest of the saloon keepers testified, when asked in regard to midnight and Sunday closing, "I threw away the key to my front door thirteen years ago." The mayor appearing before the Ministerial Union said, "Gentlemen, I bespeak your charitable judgment. I know as well as you that the laws are not enforced. They cannot be. If my police force were large enough to place a man at the front door and another at the rear door of each saloon I could not then make them obey the laws." He knew, as we all know, that the saloon is by very nature an outlaw, and behaves everywhere and always consistent with its reputed character. Six years ago the "scarlet woman" paraded our streets in costliest livery, and the gambler's mistress was very much in evidence. Six years ago the gambling hells were as open as our churches, and on a certain Sunday night had more men and boys in attendance than could be found in all our Protestant churches. Such, in barest outline was the condition of Jacksonville in the days of the saloon.

It may be asked, "Why bring in gambling and harlotry. The saloon only is in question." Would to God this were true—but it is not. Gambling and harlotry are inseparable from the saloon, where one multiplies the other does in exact mathmatical ratio. So essentially one are they regarded, that one state, Nevada, allowed all under one common license. Indeed, locally, we know it to be so. A leading physician of our city has publicly asserted, "I know from my night calls that the saloon, the bawdy house and the gambling den are one." We must face the fact, if we vote in the saloon we vote back the other conditions of sorrow and shame.

In conducting this campaign, we shall refuse to be turned aside from the main question—the saloon, intrinsically a good or an evil? If a good, we want it next door to our schools, our libraries and our homes. If an evil, we don't want it any closer to human life than smallpox or other like plague. There is but one answer to this question. There never has been but one answer to this question. There never can be but one answer to this question, for the saloon from center to circumference is wholly evil, as the Good Book put it, "From the sole of the foot to the crown of the head there is no soundness in it, but wounds and bruises, and putrifying sores."

No apologist has ever lifted voice in defense of the saloon only on the ground that it is a "necessary evil." In "good old days" of common drunk and general debauchery, so common and so universal that we took no more notice of the number of intoxicated men around the square on a Saturday night, than we thought to count the dogs we passed on the street—in those "good days of old," a saloon keeper said to the writer, "It's bad business, I intend to get out of it some day, but if the fools want the blank stuff, I might as well have their fool money as anybody else."

Again, in conducting this campaign, while insisting that the issue before us is moral, and as a moral issue we must emphasize the moral phase, nevertheless, we shall meet most heartily the economic side as presented by our opponents. But, in parenthesis, who are our opponents? So far the only voice audible is the saintly voice of one Rev.—heaven save the mark—W. A. Gardner, who for pure love of humanity has come to show benighted Jacksonville the error of her ways, especially solicitous for our boys and girls who will surely wander from the paths of rectitude in a saloonless town—a reverend gentleman going about doing good as his Master did before him. Verily an altruist of Christly spirit! But, seriously, what concern is this election to him? Whose master does he serve? Who pays the wage? However, we rather like the humor of the situation. Importing a reverend gentleman is an evidence of desperation; a confession that the espoused cause is so impossible that a respectable contest could not be made without the importation of some sacrosanct article from abroad. In truth, we are exceedingly glad of the reverend gentleman's presence, as a foreign importation to lead a forlorn hope he assurredly will increase our majority by five hundred or more votes.

Returning to the economic phase; we contend that investigation and experience have abundantly proven true the Hon. W. J. Bryan's axiom, "An economic question is in final analysis a moral question." What is right is good economy; what is wrong is bad economy. We shall show by a comparions, then and now, of our county court and city police records, that a dry town pays; by the comparative number of depositors and the amount deposited in our banks, that the $100,000 which formerly was annually sent out of our city to the brewers and wholesale liquor dealers, now stays at home and adds to our wealth; by that infallible indicator of legitimate business, the postoffice, that business increased as the number of government tax licenses decreased; by the records of our county and city charities, that the call for help is in great measure contingent upon the presence of the saloon; and, we will support by affidavit, if required, that in the last year of saloons there were seven vacant business houses around the square and today only one; and lastly this significant fact, the Clearing House figures show two million dollars increase!. In short, we shall show overwhelmingly a saving of expense all along the line, and a corresponding increase of wealth in every department of civic life.

Finally, remembering that all that is before us is primarily a matter of morals and not money, of soul and not pocketbook, we shall make our main appeal based on the moral and not on the economic aspects of the situation; confidently believing that there are enough high-minded men and pure-minded women to vote the saloon to "its own place," even though voting the return would boom business, light our city brighter than Paris, bring watter into our homes clear as crystal, and pave our streets with blocks of molten gold—even then, we believe that there is enough manhood or womanhood in our city to say to the saloon on November Fourth: "Go to your own place and stay with Judas; we refuse to sell our soul for thirty pieces of silver."

Good Form

Advice For Engaged Girls.

A certain amount of respect should be paid to the laws of social usage we call etiquette in the behavior of engaged couples.

An engaged girl usually devotes her time to entertaining her fiance, and he is supposed to be entirely engrossed by her—her wants and wishes his law. This is, of course, as it should be. But there is a quality of delicacy that should exist between these two when others are present too often overlooked or seemingly forgotten. They should try to remember that after the wedding ceremony has made one of the twain friends are still to be considered and, indeed, are of the greatest importance in any scheme of life, for without friends one is poor indeed.

To ignore or to coolly pass by those with whom they are associated now or will be in the future is not proper, to say nothing of the lack of taste in forgetting or seeming to forget every one but each other. A girl should hold herself too dearly to permit her fiance to forget that her parents, as well as other relatives and also her dear friends, must be considered. There are, presumably, long years to be passed together, and in the meantime surely it is worth while to show courtesy as far as possible to all.

The best (by which is meant the highest in point of social position, not necessarily the wealthiest) people are usually found to be the most considerate in all respects and in none more than in the attitude taken toward older members of the family as well as toward friends when an engagement is announced.

In time to come they will surely need counsel and advice, and it is a very small thing to do to refrain from showing too plainly the very natural desire to be alone. The extreme need not be adopted—that is, of the family being constantly present, as is the custom in countries remote from our own—yet in some ways this custom demands consideration. It is founded on safe principles and should not be ignored entirely. An engaged man should always express a desire to see the relatives of his fiancee, and she cannot do a more graceful and well bred thing than to show a profound respect with a desire to please the family and friends of the man she has selected for weal or woe.

Repose In the Hands.

If you have not paid especial attention to your hands do so. Watch them carefully. See if you relax them when they are not in gesture or use. If you keep them tense as though you were holding on to something for dear life it only means you are keeping your nerves and muscles on an unnecessary strain.

Make a practice of stretching them out a little and then relaxing them, letting them fall into place with all the muscles loose. It is said that women waste nerve force to a great extent through their hands. They may be able to keep the feet still, but the hands are never quiet, never in repose, never loosened.

All this means that nervous energy, like Bill Arp's courage, oozes through her finger tips.

Possibly you are not conscious of how much perpetual motion there is in your own hands. Take a day off to watch them. If you find that you twist and turn them, run them through the hair and over the face, rap the chair or desk with them as you talk, do—do give them a rest. You will save yourself hours of energy and throw back all that force into your system to be used in more important things.

Put these rules up on your dressing table and imprint them in your mind before you go out among people:

Keep your hands away from head and face.

Do not pick up articles over the room and put them down again as you talk.

Learn to drop the hands in the lap, on the arm of the chair or at your side, and do not move them unless it is necessary.

Constant gesturing is foolish. Don't think it is expressive to talk with the hands unless you know how to do it. A few gestures gracefully done are eloquent. Fidgeting the hand is stupid.

Bowing Good Form.

A woman should never bow to a man who has been introduced to her at some former occasion if she is ignorant of his name. If the acquaintance is so slight a recognition is rather forced and may lead to embarrassment.

The older of two women has the privilege of taking the initiative in subsequently recognizing an introduction. Women have this privilege with men. If a woman does not recognize a gentleman who has been introduced to her it is a tacit suggestion that she wishes no continuation of an acquaintanceship.

Men should always rise when any men or women are introduced in a room. In the street a man can show courtesy by removing his hat, and many keep their heads uncovered until parting from the group. A woman in bitterly cold weather should request that this little act be waived. Women should certainly rise when an elderly person is introduced; otherwise they remain seated.

AT SALEM CHURCH.

Meeting in Favor of Local Option Held Sunday—Address by Rev. W. E. Spoonts.

Sunday afternoon was surely a bad day for whisky at Salem M. E. church, four miles east of the city. The meeting had been well advertised and there was a large attendance and a good feeling manifested. Excellent music was supplied by the church choir and congregation, suitable hymns being selected for the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Cusic, pastor of the church, opened the meeting with a few suitable remarks and then introduced C. O. Bayha of this city, who presided in an acceptable manner. He spoke warmly on the subject, showing where his sympathies are and then introduced Rev. Walter Spoonts of this city as the chief speaker of the occasion. The address of the reverend gentleman showed that no mistake had been made in his selection. He spoke with earnestness and eloquence, showing up the evils of the dram shop in their true light. He especially noted the efforts of Rev. Mr. Gardner who signs the articles upholding the saloon.

Rev. rM. Spoonts told of the cruel wrongs caused by the saloon and in an eloquent and persuasive manner upheld the wisdom of a dry city and community. His address was heard with close attention throughout and at the close the first district Anti-saloon league was formally organized with J. G. Patterson, president and Harvey Davis secretary and treasurer.

LITERBERRY.

The first snow of the season arrived at about 7:30 Monday morning. The young men began tinkering with their sleighs and hunting for their bells; the old men are looking up their list year's overcoats and arctics and the young ladies are hoping the snow will lay on all winter.

Our sick are getting along as well as every one could wish. Mrs. S. H. Crum came home Sunday night; Mrs. W. E. Murray is imrpoving every day and the minor cases are all under control.

Notice to Poultry Raisers

We are now manufacturing, under state license, the best brand of chicken food on the market, known as "SUPREME CHICKEN FOOD." This food is far superior to any brand of chicken food on the market today. It is guaranteed under the Pure Food & Drugs Act, June 30, 1906, serial No. 47673. Guaranteed analysis as follows:

CRUDE FAT .....6 to 8 per cent.
PROTEIN .....22 to 24 per cent.
FIBRE .....7 to 9 per cent.

WHAT IS "SUPREME CHICKEN FOOD?"

It is a combination food consisting of meat scrap, steamed bone grit and a small percentage of clam shell grit; all clean and in a uniform size, and can be fed to large and small fowls. "SUPREME CHICKEN FOOD" is guaranteed to make your hens lay. It is the only ideal food for fall and winter use. Put up in 50 and 100 pound bags.

Price per 50 pound bag $1.50
Price per 100 pound bag $3.00

We are also manufacturing, under state license, the best brand of hog food on the market, known as "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD." It is far superior to any brand of hog food on the market today. It is guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906, Serial No. 47673. Guaranteed analysis as follows:

CRUDE FAT .....10 to 14 per cent.
CRUDE PROTEIN .....52.50 to 60 per cent.
CRUDE FIBRE .....1 to 3 per cent.
PHOSPHATE .....10 to 12 per cent.

WHAT IS "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD TANKAGE."

It is a dark colored granular meal, made from meat residues, and it supplies the protein and phosphates necessary for compounding a balanced ration in most economical and palatable form.

It contains phosphates in proper proportion to insure strength of bone and frame work. In the corn belt bone development is a matter of serious consideration.

It is not a substitute for corn, but a small quantity fed in connection with corn or other grains gives a balanced ration.

It is the most economical source of digestible protein known, containing twice as much protein as oil-meal and five times as much as middlings, shorts, shipstuff, or alfalfa meal.

TANKAGE is recommended by all leading experiment stations. It is packed in one-hundred-pound burlap sacks, plainly marked "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD." Analysis as above. It is the ideal feed to balance rations.

WHAT "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD" TANKAGE DOES.

It develops bone and muscle in young pigs and makes them grow. It matures a hog for market in two and three months quicker than corn alone, thereby saving one-third of the feed bill, one-third of the labor, one-third of the risk, increasing profits one-third.

It grows better proortioned hogs, more meat, and more fat, hence market-topper hogs. "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD" Tankage fed hogs ship well with small shrink. While in nowise a medicine, it so fortifies and strengthens the system against attacks of disease germs that "SURE FATTEN HOG FOOD" TANKAGE fed hogs are universally healthy. Manufactured by the

HOW TO REPRODUCE OLD PLASTER CAST.

Many women may desire to reproduce an article in plaster. This is not a difficult matter if these directions are followed: The materials required are: Plaster of paris, clay, water, a mixing spoon and a bread board two feet square. When you first attempt it try something simple—half of an apple, for instance. An extra precaution would be to mix a little bluing with the plaster, to distinguish it from the model. Soap the half apple well on the outside. Place it flat side down upon the modeling board and build a mound of softened clay around it.

When this has hardened mix the powdered plaster with water until it is the consistency of pancake batter. Pour this into the mold of clay. When it has hardened separate the mold from the cast. To cast the whole of an object mold one-half at a time, and soap both sides of the inside of the mold thoroughly. Make a hole in the top of the mold, which is formed by the union of the two halves. Through this opening pour the liquid plaster.

When the cast has hardened it may be shellacked or ivorized.

This is extremely interesting. Try it some time and see.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

How to Make a Pool For the Water Garden.

Nowadays there are many forms of gardening, but perhaps few are more interesting than the water garden. Most persons have an idea that a water garden is only possible where there is a large amount of room. This is quite a wrong notion. There must be few gardens in which it is not possible to spare a piece of ground about nine feet square, and this is all that is necessary.

The situation is a matter of some importance. In a general way odd corners are to be avoided, and the more open the position the better.

A very good formation for the pool would be that of a rough circle. Six feet is a suitable measurement for the diameter of the pond, which should be dug out in the form of a rough basin. The greatest depth must be in the center of the pool, and the sides should sink fairly abruptly. In a pool of this size it is desirable to have as much deep water as possible, so that there will be good accommodation for water lilies. The deepest part of the pool should not be less than two feet six inches and might be a little more.

After the digging out of the basin one of the first steps is to make sure that the soil is pressed down very firmly in the bottom.

The question of lining the basin now arises. Of course there is no doubt that the ideal way is to spread over the whole of the floor a layer of concrete. This substance is formed by mixing moderate sized stones with cement, and the making of it is not beyond the average amateur. The concrete is spread over the bottom of the basin and should not be less than three inches in thickness.

How to Arrange For Early Breakfast.

Many women are called upon to have early breakfast, and some find it quite a hardship. To relieve this hardship, said an accomplished housekeeper, I have adopted the following plan: Before retiring at night I set my table, prepare the fruit and place it in a cool place, roll my butter balls and put on ice. If I am to have a cooked cereal I put it to soak in a double boiler, which needs only to be put over the fire first thing on coming into the kitchen in the morning; if a cereal only to be crisped I measure it into a pan ready to be run into the oven.

I measure my coffee and put it in the pot ready for the water. If I am to have hot biscuits or waffles or buckwheat cakes I measure the flour and all ingredients and have it ready to mix with the milk, or if I am to have toast I slice the bread ready for the toaster. If I am to have breakfast bacon I have it sliced and ready for the spider, or if there are to be croquettes I mold them and have them ready to be browned. Thus I have my breakfast ready in twenty or twenty-five minutes after entering the kitchen in the morning.

How to Protect Parasols.

The delicately colored silk and linen parasols so popular this summer ought to have cases to keep them dust and spot free when not in use. These covers are very easy to make. The parasol should be measured from the tip to the end of the ribs, and a bag, shaped at the end, should be cut the proper length. The seam may be sewed plainly or with some fancy stitch. Turn over the top and insert a drawing string or sew beading at the top and insert ribbon. An embroidered initial in the center of the bag makes it more attractive.

How to Mend a Hot Water Bottle.

If you find a tiny break in the hot water bag don't throw it away. Apply several coats of liquid court plaster and let each coat dry before applying the next. This will extend the usefulness of the bag, as the court plaster is waterproof and hot water will not melt it.

CHILDREN HATE OIL, CALOMEL AND PILLS

"California Syrup of Figs" Best for Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels—Tastes Delicious.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

RUB BACKACHE AWAY WITH OLD TIME OIL

Rub Lumbago, Pain, Stiffness Right Out With a Small Trial Bottle of St. Jacobs Oil.

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into your back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly and surely. It never disappoints. (Adv.)

FORMER COACH TO WED.

The young people met for the first time while they were both residents of this city.

MICHIGAN WOMAN FEDERATION.

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 20.—All preparations have been completed to entertain in comfortable style the Michigan Federation of Women's clubs, which will meet in annual convention here tomorrow, under conditions perhaps more favorable for a successful meeting than since the organization. Advices received by the local committee indicate that almost every county of the state will be represented.

IN DANGER OF AUTOS.

The cold weather of the past few days has brought to those who travel in buggies increased danger from collision with autos. With the curtains drawn and the vehicle rattling over a rough road it is difficult to hear the approach of an automobile unless the chauffeur takes especial care to sound a loud warning with his horn. Several drivers of horses who have met up with careless autoists lately have expressed themselves as wishing that such chauffeurs were more careful, especially at this time of year.

SUITS FILED.

The following cases appealed from justice court hearings were filed Monday for hearing at the November term of the circuit court: Louie Fernandes, malicious mischief: Woodson vs. E. E. Crain, appeal.

POULTRY CULTURE
Article XVIII.

If the hatching of chicks out of season is practiced, artificial heating is usually necessary, as they must be surrounded by conditions which will insure continuous growth, unchecked by chills or other discomforting influences.

Cleaning House—Each and every poultry building should be so constructed that it will be easy to remove all its furnishings and thoroughly clean its interior. The doors or windows can be placed so that the litter and dirt may be shovelled directly from the building into a cart and fresh soil and straw can be quickly and conveniently placed inside with comparatively little labor. Inconvenient arrangements tempt the poultryman to neglect cleaning.

Injurious Insects—The interior walls of the hen house should be smooth and have as few projections and crevices as possible. Lice seek the cracks and crannies and it is difficult to dislodge them by sweeping, spraying, washing or fumigation, from these hiding places.

Rats Barred—The buildings should be rat proof. Especially is this true of the grain room and brooder house. Various means of preventing the entrance of rats are employed. Concrete floors, if made with a sufficient proportion of good cement to be very hard, will withstand the rats' teeth. Laying wire netting of one-fourth or one-half mesh under the floor is usually effective. Extending the sides of the building down into the soil eighteen inches by means of boards or wire netting will generally defeat the rats. Sharp broken glass is sometimes mixed with the stones in a foundation trench underneath the sills of the building. Any knot hole or other aperature that would admit a rat can be sotpped by a cement made of plaster of paris and broken glass.

Mice are sometimes troublesome, especially in the granary. They should be kept out.

Further details as to means for resisting the rodents will be suggested in lecture XIX. Our object at present is to emphasize the necessity of excluding these and other vermin from the house and to urge that this point be not forgotten in preparing for the housing of the poultry.

Suitable Situation—A situation for each house on the poultry plant should be selected which will give it the most favorable position possible in relation to the natural advantages for which the location was chosen. If there are unfavorable conditions the building sites should be fixed where these conditions can be remedied most easily.

If the natural wind breaks—the hills and woods do not sufficiently shelter the location, hedges or evergreen trees may be planted where they will be most effective in warding off the harsh winds and lessening the severity of storms. Arbor vitae is excellent where a compact-hedge of medium height is needed. White pine and Norway spruce planted in double rows make a large, strong wind break. They also provide a cool shady place in summer where fowls delight to stay.

In the villages and cities the poultry houses are oftentimes well sheltered by nearby buildings. If other protection is required a board fence six feet high is quite effective.

A temporary protection from cold winds may be made by piling evergreen boughs against the exposed side of the building. Corn stalks or straw may be used for the same purpose, but are also liable to harbor rats.—H. A. McKeene, Secretary, Illinois Farmers' Institute.

TEXTILE WORKERS MEET.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—Many important labor matters of general interest to the cotton and other textile trades will come up for discussion during the four days session of the annual convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which opened here today with a large attendance of delegates. The convention will probably discuss the advisability of removing its headquarters from Fall River to New York.

Most Dangerous of Minor Ailments

Of the minor ailments a cold is by far the most dangerous, not in itself but the serious diseases it so often leads to. Pneumonia and consumption always start with a cold. When you have a cold you are much more likely to contract the infectious diseases such as diptheria, scarlet fever and whooping cough. Colds are easily cured, in fact, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of this most common ailment, and is pleasant and safe to take. Why take such desperate chances when so reliable and trustworthy a medicine may be obtained for a quarter. For sale by all dealers.

BECOMES BRIDE OF ZULU PRINCE.

Danville, Va., Oct. 20.—Quite out of the ordinary was the international matrimonial alliance consummated here today, inasmuch as it involves neither an American heiress nor a title of European nobility. The bride was Miss Julia Smith, a young negress living in the town of Almagro, and the bridegroom Prince Madikane Q. Cele, whose father is said to be a high potentate of the Zulus in South Africa.

Prince Cele came to the United States about seven years ago, having heard of the country and its opportunities through a missionary in South Africa. He took his first lesson in Engihs speaking at the Slater school in Winston-Salem, N. C., and while there he learned of Hampton Institute, where he went the next year. Recently he finished a six year course at Hampton, where his bride of today was also a student.

At Hampton Prince Cele mastered the wheelwright and blacksmith trades and botained a knowledge of other practical arts. Now he intends to return with his bride to his native land and together they will endeavor to teach the Zulus to make use of their natural resources. They also will conduct an active campaign in behalf of Christianity. As a missionary the prince's expenses will be plaid by Hampton Institute.

Such testimony should be convincing. 50 cents a bottle at all druggists.—Adv.

UPWARD MOVEMENT IN STOCKS SHORT LIVED

NO BROAD DEMAND FOR ISSUES DEVELOPS.

Shorts Cease Buying to Cover and Put Out New Lines Instead—Market Turns and Early Advances Soon Lost.

(By Associated Press)

New York, Oct. 20.—Hopes that the rise in stocks late last week was the prelude to a sustained upward movement were extinguished today. Early in the day a few stocks, including Denver & Rio Grande, Erie first preferred, Rock Island preferred and American Car rose a point or more. But it was soon apparent that no broad demand had developed. Shorts ceased buying stocks to cover and put out new lines instead. The market turned and early advances were soon replaced with losses. The list was well under Saturday's close most of the day, although a late rally reduced losses and in some cases cancelled them.

The discouraging feature from the point of view of the bulls was the ease with which prices were depressed. The railroad list was heaviest and such stocks as St. Paul, Lehigh Valley, Reading, Pennsylvania, New York Central and Union Pacific were off 1 to 2 points at the low figures of the day. New Haven, which dropped to 83, reached a new low record. Pennsylvania's heaviness was associated with further reports that the company was planning a billion dollar mortgage, although there was no new official information.

The coppers were benefitted temporarily by an advance in the metal in London.

AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Sunday Rev. R. O. Post, D. D., of the Congregational church, spoke briefly on the saloon question with his usual vigorous and decisive manner, portraying the disgrace that would come to the city should the wets prevail. He also announced the presence in the city next Sunday of a prominent speaker who would address the people, presumably in Central park, after the other forces had concluded and should the weather be too cool or unpleasant then in some church.

Receipts of Wheat Northwest Much Smaller Than Last Week and Foreign Shipments Much Lighter—Corn Sympathizes With Smaller Grain.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Reports from India that crops had failed had much to do today with a bulge in the price of wheat. The market closed steady at an advance of ¾c to ⅞c net. Corn wound up with a gain of ⅝c to ¾c and oats dearer by ¾@⅞c to ½c.

The finish in provisions was irregular, varying from 5c decline to a rise of 5@7½c.

Bulls took control of wheat from the start. Receipts northwest were much smaller than last week or last year and foreign shipments were lighter. Another sustaining influence was report of drought in Argentina. Final quotations were within ¼@⅜c of the top figures of the session.

Corn sympathized with wheat. Rough weather and country buying were of considerable assistance to the bulls. In addition, husking returns looked disappointing, local stocks were down and the visible supply showed a big drop.

Oats rallied on account of the strength in other grain.

The bulge, however, brought out many sales on resting orders. Although provisions displayed some firmness because of active investment in lard, much of the advance was afterward lost.

Offerings by holders were liberal on all the swells.

No more knives, files or razors that make corns grow, and cause danger of blood poison. "GETS-IT" is equally harmless to healthy or irritated flesh. It "gets" every corn, wart, callus and bunion you've got.

Points for Mothers

Why Daughter May Rebel.

Far be it from a simple soul who merely writes to stir up another family fracas in these days of much domestic disorder. But it does seem as if any young girl who is unbecomingly dressed by her mother this summer would have grounds for rebellion. Most of the styles shown for girls in their teens are so charming that it will be inexcusable if the ugly and unsuitable ones are chosen.

For of course there are some that are both ugly and entirely inappropriate for the jeune fille, though some of our young girls are appallingly blind to the latter fact. The only explanation of the appearance of these girls is that their mothers have abdicated all authority over them. The girls themselves do not seem to realize that they are voluntarily giving up the most charming role in the world.

The whole question, however, is receiving its due share of attention in current discussion of manners and morals, so we may be allowed to stick to our muttons, otherwise modes.

The flounced skirt is secure of its position as a leader of youthful fashions in wash materials and is being developed in constantly increasing variety. It may consist of a deep tunic reaching to the knees, with a single flounce below that. There may be three flounces, growing deeper from the belt to the hem or reversing that order and having the shortest one at the bottom and the deepest one at the top.

One charming model seen recently had an eighteen inch tunic with three sixteen inch ruffles below it. The next step may be the solid ruffled skirt—in narrow ruffles—which has always been especially attractive on slim, girlish figures.

There is one feature, however, that is almost essential to bring these flounced skirts up to date. The ruffle or tunic, or whatever it is, must be caught up slightly, generally at the left knee in front, and fastened with a rose or a bunch of flowers. The same accessory is added at the belt, where it is half covered by the loose folds of the corsage.

The skirt often has a band of colored satin ribbon encircling it underneath the shadow lace, for the most attractive of these frocks are of shadow lace or net flouncings and "all overs." They can be made at home or by an ordinary dressmaker, which is another point very much in their favor. Of course the big soft girdle is of wide ribbon or of silk or satin by the yard and always in a color.

Dressing Up.

Mother came down in a pretty afternoon dress, and wee Maud and Billy were still in their rompers. They were nice, clean rompers, to be sure, but still undeniably the everyday garments.

Maud put up a plea for a "best" dress, and mother took her up and put on a modest little gingham dress.

"Now, Maud," she said, "you will have to stay on the porch with mother. You cannot play with brother in the sand pile. Wouldn't you be more comfortable in the rompers?"

"I know I can't play in the best dress," said the small woman, "but I feel comfortable in my soul."

Every woman will know just what Maud meant. We all feel comfortable in our souls when we are freshly and neatly dressed. It is well not to ignore this fact when training the children. When the little girl and boy are old enough to care for it it is well to have a change of clothing just before the homecoming of father. It may be the simplest and plainest thing, but it should be reserved for that time, and it will give the desirable dressed up feeling. No one desires children to think of their clothes, and the romper is surely the ideal play garment. But if we are going to teach the children to be neat and dainty we must begin in childhood. The woman who ignores her clothes is rather an unpleasant creature. We must also be careful not to let the children ignore them too entirely.

Warm Weather Dress For the Baby.

When the warm weather months confront us the young mother begins to think about cool clothes for baby, and not the least important of the articles required for the wardrobe is the loose coat to be worn over the long dress, for baby dare not be exposed to drafts at any time.

The needlework shops are showing an attractive variety of long coats made of crepe de chine or albatross. These can be copied with little difficulty.

Purchase a kimono pattern for a baby and stamp the border with scallops. Down the fronts and around the sleeves stamp a dainty flower design. Either forgetmenots, rosebuds or violets are suitable. White silk of a fine quality should be used to embroider the flowers.

First pad the petals, using white darning cotton for the purpose. Make the padding stitches the length of the petals and cover them with silk, making the stitches at right angles with the padding. Buttonhole the scallops with heavier twisted silk, padding them first with the darning cotton.

Tie the fronts together with white ribbon an inch in width.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Me for Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated, olive colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, Ohio.—Adv.

AN INTERESTING EXHIBIT.

Necessity has ever been the mother of invention and is quite often the mother of economy.

There is no problem any more important to the American farmer and property owner than the fence post problem. Many improvements have been made in farm implements, but the same kind of posts are still in use, requiring more labor than formerly on account of the inferior timber that must be used for posts at this time.

Why not use a post that will make a stronger and more beautiful fence, something that is ever lasting and not cost any more money.

See the exhibit of the Everlasting Post Co. in the Degen Bldg., opposite Court house, corner North West and West Court streets.

WILL SELL CADE FARM.

The undersigned as administrator will sell at auction at the south door of the court house Saturday, Oct. 25 at 2 p. m. the William Cade farm of 220 acres located one and a half miles north of Murrayville. This is a good stock and grain farm. Inexhaustible water supply.

Henry Cade, Adm.

AT NICHOLS PARK.

The people of Jacksonville are respectfully invited to visit Nichols park before cold weather and see a regular beauty spot minus the flowers which succumbed the cold weather. The recent rains have freshened everything and even the chautauqua grounds which looked as if they would not be green again are fresh and inviting. The place is a beautiful green sward and the trees are vigorous generally and healthy and things in general look inviting with the exception of the lake and it is the earnest hope that rain will soon come and fill that so that the fish will not be destroyed.

CLERGY TO FIGHT GAMBLING ON RACES.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 20.—Ministers of various denominations from all parts of the state gathered here today at a meeting under the auspices of the Moral Reform league to take steps for the starting of a statewide campaign against various forms of vice, especially against gambling at the race tracks in the state. Governor Stewart will be asked to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of enacting laws prohibiting gambling and abolishing the segregation system in dealing with the vice question in cities.

LITERBERRY, 9; CONCORD, 0.

Nine to nothing in favor of Literberry was the result Sunday of the Concord-Literberry game at Concord, although until the ninth inning the score stood five to five. A quarrel the last inning, arising from the attempt of the Literberry manager to run in a new pitcher resulted finally in the forfeiture of the game by the men from Concord. Smith and Hamm were the batteries for Concord and Daniels and Young for Literberry. Roach, one of the players was struck by a ball with such force as to break his nose. He is now in Our Savior's hospital. Mr. Holt of Concord was hit by a foul ball with such force as to break his nose.

TRIAL OF THOMAS E. WATSON.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 20.—Important issues are involved in the case of Thomas E. Watson, editor, author, and nominee of the People's party for the presidency of the United States in 1904, who is to be tried at the term of the United States district court which opened here today on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. The charge resulted from the publication of articles in two of Watson's magazines, denouncing the Roman Catholic church. He was indicted by the federal grand jury Nov. 19, 1912. Watson claims if he were guilty of the charge it would be a violation of the federal laws to send a Bible through the mails. Judge S. G. McLendon, former railorad commisioner and leading counsel for Watson, contends that the case is not under the jurisdiction of the federal government, and that if prosecution is to take place it should be done by the state. Judge McLendon further declares that the case hinges on the freedom of the press and that for the first time in America he wil seek a judicial opinion on that clause of the constitution which relates to congress making laws regarding the freedom of the press. The trial will take place before Judge Rufus E. Foster of the esaern district of Louisiana, who has been specialy assigned to try the case.

For Bright Eyes and Clear Nose

Remarkable Catarrh Cure That Gets Right into the Affected Parts and Stops Gatherings.

S. S. S. is a Wonder for the Eyes, Nose and Throat.

It is definitely known that catarrh can be cured by the simple process of inoculating the blood with antidotal remedies that stop inflammatory conditions throughout the mucous linings of all the organs of the body. This is done with the famous Swift's Sure Specific, or as it is widely known, S. S. S. It is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, through all the veins and arteries, and enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache and steadily improved nasal condition.

For special advice on any blood disease write to the Swift Specific Co., 223 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. from your druggist.

Always insist that you want S. S. S. and nothing else. Beware of all attempts to sell you a substitute.

ILLINOIS PLAYS BRADLEY NEXT

STRONG PEORIA TEAM COMES HERE SATURDAY.

Coach Harmon Has Already Started to Get His Men in Pink of Condition For Gridiron Struggle—J. H. S. Team Goes to Peoria Saturday—Have Games Scheduled With Keokuk and Quincy.

Notwithstanding "blue Monday," which is known all over the country in athletic circles of both colleges and universities, Coach Harmon had his men out yesterday kicking the ball all over the field and running signals in the usual order. All the old men were in uniform, except Lukeman, Alford and Mitchell. Mitchell suffered a slight injury to his hand in the game with Normal. There will be hard practice on the hill from now till Saturday in anticipation of the hard game here against Bradley Polytechnic Institute. Bradley has a strong team this year and some men of football experience. They have three stars in Allen, fullback; Tefft, halfback, and Anderson, right tackle.

Strength of Teams.

Some idea of the relative strength of Illinois and Bradley can be learned by comparative scores. On Oct. 11 Bradley defeated Normal university on Bradley field by a score of 19 to 7. Illinois college defeated Normal last Saturday on Normal field by a score of 22 to 7. This would give Illinois a slight edge on Bradley. Again, Bradley trimmed Lincoln college last Saturday by a score of 7 to 0 and a week ago Lincoln trimmed Illinois 7 to 0 on Lincoln field. Of course this game with Lincoln does not give a good idea of the strength of the two squads because the Lincoln game was played in the rain and slush and made good football impossible.

Coach Harmon's men in the Normal game showed better form, both in defensive and offensive playing, but there is still room for considerable improvement and the team's weakness in several points was brought in the first real game Saturday.

Coach Harmon is perfecting a new charging machine, which allows eight men to use it at once and it helps to form the habit of tackling low. The game with Bradley Saturday will serve to clear up a number of points relative to the two teams and other squads and so both schools are anxious to annex the game.

J. H. S. vs. Peoria.

Coach Buland at the high school is now directing his training in preparation for the game against Peoria High school next Saturday, which will be played at Peoria. The showing the J. H. S. men made against Lincoln High has engendered a spirit of confidence in the players that they are going to redouble their energies to take every game of the schedule.

The Peoria High played Ottawa High last Saturday and was defeated by a score of 13 to 0, although the game was hotly contested throughout. The Peoria men found their greatest gainer in the use of the forward pass, Roberts, left end of the Peorians, doing some excellent work. Ottawa's first score came at the end of the third quarter.

Play Keokuk and Quincy.

On Nov. 1 the Jacksonville team will play Keokuk at Keokuk and on Nov. 8 Quincy will come here for a game. Quincy and Keokuk played a game last Saturday and in speaking of the contest the Quincy paper says: "Keokuk High school won a hard fought football game from Quincy in Quincy Saturday afternoon, when Jenkins, Keokuk's quarter, intercepted a forward pass in the middle of the field and dodged through a broken field for a touchdown. The touchdown came in the third quarter after the ball had been see-sawed back and forth in the middle of the field for the greater part of the game. The best ground gainer for Keokuk proved to be end runs and forward passes. Little progress was made on line bucks. The Keokuk team was handicapped by the loss of Parsons, who had been a consistent ground-gainer for the local team at the halfback position. The Quincy team was much lighter than the local team and the line had little trouble in holding their backs. Ellington, right tackle, and Agnew, center, also played star games for Keokuk."

Mrs. Sholl was delighted to get back her property and the brakeman was handsomely rewarded.

MORGAN COUNTY DEMOCRATS MADE PLEA TO GOV. DUNNE

Communed With Illinois Executive on the Scarcity of Jobs For Morgan County Men—Only the Efficient Need Apply Was the Governor's Reply.

Morgan county Democrats to the number of thirty-six, most of them members of the county central committee went to Springfield Monday to interview Gov. Dunne. By appointment they went to the governors office and he met them in the reception room for an informal conference. James Kenney was the spokesman for the company and he made it clear that the delegation wished to see the governor and if possible impress upon him the rights of Morgan county to more state positions.

Mr. Kenney read first, some resolutions which were adopted at a recent meeting of the Morgan count central Committee and which had the signatures of the chairman A. D. Arnold and the Secretary E. P. Brockhouse. The resolutions paid tribute to the Democratic national and state administrations. Then the speaker made it clear that the Morgan county democrats would certainly like to have something more handed out in the job line.

Governor Dunne, so one of the company said, had that smile which never seems to fail him when an office seekere is beseiging him. In replying the governor spoke particularly of the state institutions here and said that he would rather resign than appoint incompetent men for positions as superintendents. He said that efficiency would come first and that when the Morgan county democrats could point out experienced men for the superintendencies of the state intsitutions here that then the matter would be given prompt consideration. Further the governor said that no applications had been filed for the superintendency of the School for the Blind or for Jacksonville State Hospital. He said that Mr. Ashley and Dr. Kopperl had both filed applications for the superintendency of the School for the Deaf but neither had experience in that field of education work and that he could not appoint them.

Altogether it was a very nice high class talk along the lines of efficiency but the visitors really did not get much comfort although they of course were imbued with a feeling that it was a grand thing to belong to a party wherein efficiency counted for so much.

There was one gleam of hope however for when just before the visitors left one of the referred to minor positions at state institutions, the governor said he would look into mat ter. This speaker suggested that there were various clerkships and heads of departments in the state institutions which could readily be filled by Democrats and that great good might thus accrue to the party.

In defending his record in the matter of appointments Governor Dunne said he had left the appointments in this district to Representative Morris and said he was not aware until recently that thirteen of the fifteen appointments thus made had gone to Sangamon county.

WRECK ON ALTON.

A number of people who went to St. Louis yesterday saw the effects of the wreck of the "Midnight Special" on the Chicago and Alton at Alton Sunday morning. Fifteen people were injured and all the passengers were shaken up. Spreading rails is assigned as the cause of the wreck. Thirty-three lives were probably saved by a steel cable bracing a telephone pole which caught the chair car and prevented it from overturning.

DR. ARNOLD ON TRIAL.

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 20.—Dr. Benjamin A. Arnold, a prominent physician of this city, was placed on trial today in the United States district court charged with sending obscene, anonymous letters through the mail to Alta Rosenstiel, a farmer's daughter at Scito Mills. Judge Landis came here from Chicago to preside at the trial, which is expected to develop sensational features.

The examination of jurors was enlivened by the presence of a squad of deputy marshals and special agents from the department of justice. They were under instruction to watch every member of the venire called for jury service. District Attorney Wilkerson took personal charge of instructing the operations of the special agents.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS BRIEF SESSION MONDAY MORNING

New Light Bond Ordinance Introduced by Mr. Brennan—City Attorney Will Take Steps to Make Railroads Light Crossings.

The city council held a very brief session Monday morning. Commissioners Engel and Knollenberg were absent when the roll was called. Some routine business was given attention. Commissioner Newman stated that work on the walk ordered in front of Dr. P. L. Brown's property on West State street had not yet been started and that if the property owner diid not soon have the work begun that the city would ask for bids.

City Attorney Thompson was instructed to prepare an ordinance compelling railroads to furnish lights for crossings on their property within the corporate limits.

Commissioner Brennan presented a light bond ordinance. It calls for the issuance of $50,000 to equip the municipal plant for city and commercial lighting. The bonds are to bear 5 per cent interest and are to be payable in twenty years. The ordinance was laid over under the rules.

MEDICAL EXPERTS TESTIFY THAT EATON DIED FROM POISON

State That at Least One Dose Was Administered Within Six or Eight Hours of His Death.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 20.—Rear-admiral Joseph G. Eaton, died from poison, at least one dose of which was administered within six or eight hours of his death, during which time, testimony showed, he was unconscious.

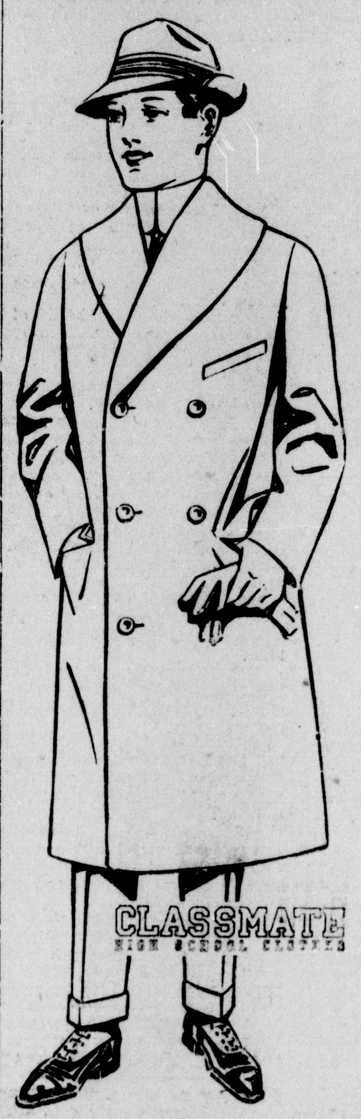

This statement of medical experts, was the principal evidence introduced by the government in its efforts to support its charge that the admiral came to his death at the hands of his widow, Mrs. Jennie May Eaton now on trial for life.

That Mrs. Eaton had many times said that she wished her husband was dead, was the statement made on the witness stand today by Henry M. Cates, of Rockland, who knew the family in 1910.

Experts who had analyzed the contents of the organs removed from the body of the admiral, testified of having found sixteen grains of pure white arsenic and said a greater amount was probably thrown off from the admiral's system before death.

The experts admitted under cross examination that the presence of a large quantity of arsenic has been accepted by experts as an indication that the poison was self administered. On direct-examination the poison might equally well have been administered by some other person. It is the contention of the government that poison was given the admiral in tea and other beverages by his widow.
